[THE] Home Organizers We Love

Now and going forward, we are committed to creating and sharing content that matters. Period.

This goes beyond using a hashtag or posting on our social feeds. It's important that our platform evolves into a space where we not only share our own content, but combine with other voices to amplify and support.

Over the past few weeks, we have been introduced to so many amazing home organizers in the BIPOC community. We shared them with you on our Instagram stories but also wanted to post them on our blog as a resource.

Follow them. Support them. And if you live in their city, hire them. We love them and so will you!
